Artist's Statement:

The artist uses everyday objects set in novel combinations and environments, in order to address the inward torsions of the human psyche. One shocking example are the flowers the artist paints. As you grow closer to see the beauty of the petals and leaves, you suddenly feel the hairs on your neck stand up as you come to realize they are looking back at you! Or the twilight in many of the paintings that the artist identifies as the inner emotion that is hidden from your intimate family and friends.

And most important, are the carved twisted rocks that represent a persons character, when someone close to you implies you are useless, these words cut into your character, and split and twist the rock.
