When church member Andrew Darling dreamed of making their sanctuary more worshipful, he thought of stained glass windows. Marianne Daddysman Golby created designs, Warren Schiebold put his engineering background to use in designing the structure for the windows and both Mr. Darling and Mr. Schiebold joined the Stained Glass Guild. Neither had been stained glass artists. They began a three-year process of creating their own windows, experimenting on each one.

After the final window was installed in 1991 Warren Schiebold became the Central Florida Stained Glass Guild Ambassador. The Guild now holds its meetings at this church. The windows present six principles of the Gospel: Faith, Baptism, Resurrection, Repentance, Laying on of Hands, and Eternal Judgment.

Resurrection was the first window created. Its positive receptions ensured that the project continued. A local artist, Susan Dion, created the beveled glass border and the irises in the Repentance window.

The water lily and pads in Baptism were added to create depth to the water surface, although they are not naturally found in the Jordan River.

Foliage for the tree in Faith was constructed with clear glue-chip overlaid on opalescent/green streaky. The red glass of the outer robe is produced by adding gold to the melt. Flesh tones are represented by iridized (metal vacuum coated) pink opalescent glass. All windows are supported with zinc "H" and "U" channel framing and rigidized using steel re-bar soldered to the outside.

Eternal Judgment has blue iridescent glass inset for the eye. The stars are hand cut flash glass having a thin blue layer over clear. In this window the artists experimented with painting on glass for the facial details.
